

Letters About Literature

Have you ever read a story that changed your life?

Letters About Literature is a reading-writing contest encouraging students to write a letter to an author explaining how that author's work changed your way of thinking about the world or yourself.

Students in grades 4-12 can compete in three levels and there will be three winners at each level. Cash prizes are available courtesy of the South Carolina State Library Foundation.

The deadline for submission is January 10, 2020.
